The Clown Prince of Basketball joins the Portland Chinooks Basketball Organization

Local businessman and Portland Chinooks (International Basketball League) team owner Terry Emmert and the former Harlem Globetrotter Super Star Meadowlark Lemon have teamed up to promote Portland's commitment to developing athletic talent and family friendly entertainment here in the Portland area. Terry Emmert of Emmert International will introduce Meadowlark Lemon as his newest member of the Portland Chinooks star studded Advisory Board.

Meadowlark will begin assuming his duties as an ambassador of the Portland Chinooks and will be joining current board members:

Michael Harper, Mark Eaton, Jerome Kersey, Bucky Buckwalter, Darnell Valentine, Clyde Drexler, Dale Schleuter, Larry Steele, Kenny Carr, Chris Dudley, Stan Love and Bobby Gross in supporting and promoting amateur and professional sports here in Portland.

"We are extremely excited about this opportunity to bring aboard one of the most recognizable names in family entertainment. Meadowlark is a sports icon who has brought smiles to millions of people all over the world. I want to urge all of our fans to come out this Saturday and meet this great American sports legend Meadowlark Lemon "said Terry Emmert .

Meadowlark said "I 'm honored and I look forward to joining Terry Emmert and the Portland Chinooks in promoting sports here in the Portland community. I think this is a just the beginning of some pretty exciting things to come."

The Portland Chinooks promise to deliver a fast paced high scoring fun-filled evening of family friendly entertainment. This Saturday's International Basketball League's featured match up will pit the Portland Chinooks against the Vancouver Volcanoes.

This will be an exciting evening as world renowned saxophonist and recording artist Patrick Lamb will start the evening off with his soulful rendition of the National Anthem. Setting the stage as the talented Portland Chinooks take the court led by former Oregon State University standout David Lucas son of former NBA All-Star and Portland Trailblazer great Maurice Lucas.

Tipoff is at 7:30PM at the Eastmoreland Courts 3015 SE Berkeley Place, Portland, OR 97202. Bring your family and friends, and catch the excitement of the International Basketball League.
